I saw Battle Forever at a cheap price a few months back, but held off on it until today. The forums are bare, and a couple of the reviews seem rather harsh. Surely the game can't be that bad. Truth is, it isn't. However it isn't a great game either. You can tell a lot of passion went into it, as the graphics and sound, while not exceptional, do their job well enough. Considering one guy did it in maybe five months, it's pretty impressive honestly. The gameplay itself is rather simple, but it is a beat 'em up so they are supposed to be simple. You move from left to right, beating up groups of enemies that come in five types with a combo, a heavy move, or a special move that you can constantly recharge and use over and over again. Along the way you fight several bosses, including 'The Bleeder' who sprays slime everywhere, 'Mike' (no seriously that's his name) who makes clones of himself, and the big bad, Professor S, the most evil of all scientists, who randomly drops copy machines that shoot paper airplanes at you? The story is clearly a bit tongue in cheek as you can't take it totally seriously. But that's fine, you don't come to this sort of game for a story. With that being said, one playthrough of this game will take you less than an hour. But there are four characters and a handful of achievements so you're gonna get about four, or maybe five hours, on a $2.00 (Canadian) purchase. That's not too bad for a game like this. You certainly won't be battling forever, but you'll get enough enjoyment out of it for your money. An easy to play, time killing, not-quite-forever lasting recommendation.. I was excited by the look of this game as back in the 90s I played the likes of Vigilante , Double Dragon and many other like these. The gameplay however is simply terrible. Controls, gameflow/sprites/scrolling and enemy AI just ruins everything. I cannot recommend this game to anyone.. Controls, gameflow/sprites/scrolling and enemy AI just ruins everything. I cannot recommend this game to anyone.. Just asked for a refund. The free game this rips off, little fighter 2 (lf2.net) , is 100 times better than this piece of crap. lf2 has more characters, more special moves and smoother controls (imagine that huh? an old a game like lf2 has smoother controls than this crap).
